ENTHUSIASTIC IN PRAISE OF HAWAII

Los Angeles People Return Home
From Honolulu and Tell Them All About Us.

Letters have just been received from George Drake Ruddy, who spent some time in Honolulu with his wife and who has just returned to their home city, Los Angeles.

"We have a warm place in our hearts for the perfect climate and the hospitable people," he says, "and hope to be with you again, with all of our friends we can induce to go there."

Mrs. Ruddy is also no less enthusiastic in her praise which has taken a promotion form, for in an interview given the Los Angeles Herald, she summed up to the skies. The Herald said:

Keenly alive to all the climatic charms and scenic attractions of the Hawaiian Islands, but appreciating more strongly than ever that claim which southern California exerts over all her residents, Mr. and Mrs. George Drake Ruddy are once more established in their beautiful home in Wilshire boulevard.

When this popular and prominent couple determined to leave the home they had made for themselves in this city, regrets were heard on every side. Mrs. Ruddy's frail health demanded an immediate change, and Honolulu, much vaunted, seemed most desirable. With almost no time for farewells, the house was closed, furniture packed and shipped and passage taken upon an island steamer.

News of the return of the travelers was most welcome and letters, telegrams and verbal messages of greeting reached even to San Francisco as they disembarked from their homecoming steamer.

Mrs. Ruddy has returned with her health wonderfully restored and full of admiration for the lovely Islands.

"We went out there intent upon securing a pineapple plantation," she said yesterday afternoon, "but we soon discovered that all the pineapple land near Honolulu is in the control of the great corporations. One may buy sugar stock or pineapple stock, and it is very remunerative, but nothing in the actual plantations may be had unless one goes to one of the nearby islands. And by the way," she continued, "did you know that Honolulu is not upon the Island of Hawaii at all, but on the Island of Oahu. We did find that it would be possible to secure delightful environment, all the advantages of climate and acreage, upon reasonable terms by going to the Island of Maui, about eighty miles from Honolulu, but this did not seem desirable to us, although it undoubtedly would have proved a profitable financial investment."

The perfect climate and beauties of Honolulu's setting, with ocean and mountains, luxuriant foliage and delicious and little known fruits, proved a temptation which the Californians were unable to resist, and accordingly they set up their Lanes and Penneys in a beautiful cottage in Maunaloa Valley. This is one of the fashionable suburbs of Honolulu and has a scenic environment which, according to Mrs. Ruddy, must be wonderful.

"High mountains with deep purple shadows, wonderful green lights, white clouds in the sapphire blue of the sky and freshening rain showers a dozen times a day," this is a description to lure any one to that magic Isle, and when the speaker added that the rains there are called "liquid sunshine" and never last more than a few minutes, that there was always a breeze but never a chill in the air, then did the country seem indeed desirable.

Porches in Honolulu are called "lanais," and every one eats and practically lives out of doors. Many of the early missionaries carried with them the architectural ideas of New England, just as they took that hard, stern Puritan religion. Either seems hopelessly out of place in this warm, balmy clime. Recent residences are built in style more harmonious with the character of the country, and newcomers there refuse to accept anything in the way of houses that is not planned to combine picturesque with useful qualifications.

"It is a beautiful land," said Mrs. Ruddy, "and I hope that every one of my friends may sometime take the trip. There is rest and relaxation there. Freedom from hurry and anxiety, and both business and pleasure motives along in leisurely fashion. There are many automobiles, more than I have ever seen in a city of its size, but they never run over any one. They do not hurry there. Every one has plenty of time. That is just the trouble we found with it. After a few weeks there we realized the lack of that progressive movement to which we were accustomed. It is impossible there to keep in touch with events. One does not know what is happening either in the United States or the eastern continent. News of political, scientific and artistic progress is scarce and we found ourselves unable to do without it."

Before her departure for the Hawaiian Islands Mrs. Ruddy was serving upon the boards of five important clubs. She is undecided whether to take up so many obligations again, but said, "I have returned home full of strength and ideas for work. I want to help wherever I am needed. Life for me means that I must do my part as I go along."

It seems that residents of the Island make frequent pilgrimages to one continent or the other. Some come via San Francisco to New York, while others journey across the Pacific to Chinese and Japanese ports and thence to European cities, that they may be reinvigorated mentally and find that stimulus without which the mind grows dull.

Many of the Hawaiian women are beautiful and very wealthy. Some of the richest of them wear garments in the native style, although made of the richest materials. Hats are only worn for ceremonious occasions. At other times the women, natives and newcomers as well, find a lace scarf or veil most comfortable. Men wear white flannel suits and look and feel in accord with the climate, and white is almost the universal costume for all occasions.

BULLARD'S INSTRUCTION CAMP

SAN FRANCISCO, September 6.—Lieut. Col. Robert L. Bullard, Eighth Infantry, stationed at the Presidio of Monterey, will sail on the transport Logan today for Honolulu, where he is to assume charge of the camp of instruction for infantry officers of the militia of the Territory of Hawaii, to be held at Fort Shafter from September 17 to 24.

Colonel Bullard was designated as commandant of the camp by the war department on account of his well-known ability as an instructor of junior officers and his familiarity with militia affairs. He was in charge of a similar encampment at the Presidio of Monterey recently for the officers of the National Guard of California, and the comments and reports made to the department by officers who observed the work of the other students were exceedingly flattering.

In accordance with the plan of the government to place the militia of the various states on a war footing, so that their services can be of the utmost benefit in case of an emergency, camps of instruction have been held all over the United States, and by a special arrangement the Territory of Hawaii is included. Great results are expected from the coming tour of instruction.

The roster of the First Hawaiian Infantry includes the following officers, all of whom will be present at the encampment: Col. Charles W. Ziegler, Lieut. Col. Arthur Coyne, Maj. William R. Riley and Gustave Rose, Capt. William A. Fetter, William E. Bal, Merle M. Johnson, Thomas P. Cummins, Charles M. Coster, Arthur W. Neely, Fred B. Angus, James A. Thompson, Samuel Kellin, Benjamin Kane, John W. Cook, Joaquin M. Canara and Edward Hopkins, First Lieuts. Thomas Kakalia, John D. Easton, Henry P. O'Sullivan, Luther A. K. Evans, Louis K. Kane, John W. Searle, John W. Kanaehelo, William Ahia and Manuel Costa, and Second Lieuts. Henry Kallman, Harry H. Morehead, William K. Kallakini, William F. Kane, Henry A. Bishop, Antonio Q. Marcellino, Bradford M. Sumner, Paul R. Burns and Henry Van Geison.

The following officers have been detailed by Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, commanding the department of California, to act as instructors at the coming encampment: Capt. Francis J. Koester, Fifth Cavalry; First Lieut. Austin Pardee, Twentieth Infantry; First Lieut. William H. Smith, medical corps; Second Lieut. Joseph A. Rogers, Twentieth Infantry, and Second Lieut. Lewis H. Watkins, Corps of Engineers. Lieutenant Watkins will act as camp adjutant and Lieutenant Pardee as quartermaster.

YOU WILL NOT

be deceived. That there are cheats and frauds in plenty everybody knows; but it is seldom or never that any large business house is guilty of them, no matter what line of trade it follows. There can be no permanent success of any kind based on dishonesty or deception. There never was, and never will be. The men who try that are simply fools and soon come to grief, as they deserve. Now many persons are, nevertheless, afraid to buy certain advertised articles lest they be humbugged and deluded; especially are they slow to place confidence in published statements of the merits of medicines. The effective modern remedy known as WAMPOL'S PREPARATION is as safe and genuine an article to purchase as flour, silk or cotton goods from the mills of manufacturers with a world-wide reputation. We could not afford to exaggerate its qualities or misrepresent it in the least; and it is not necessary. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry; and how valuable such a blending of these important medicinal agents must be is plain to everybody. It is beyond price in Debility, Lung Troubles and Blood Impurities. Science can furnish nothing better—perhaps nothing so good. Dr. W. P. Delfo, of Canada, says: "I have used it in my practice and take pleasure in recommending it as a valuable tonic and reconstructive." It is a remedy that can afford to appeal to its record and represents the science and knowledge of bright and aggressive medical investigation. "One bottle convinces." At chemists.
